(opposite) Deep in thought—Curiously looking on, Melany Anthony ponders the meaning of life. Well, maybe she's just checking out the "hotties." Always stylin' in the hippest new clothing, Melany redefines the word "trendy."

So long...farewell!—Bringing up the caboose, Gretchen Holt and Nick Vartanian (or is that Jason Thrush?) wave to the crowd during the Homecoming parade. Soon, seniors will wave goodbye to old routine and greet new adventures.

It's Almost Over Now

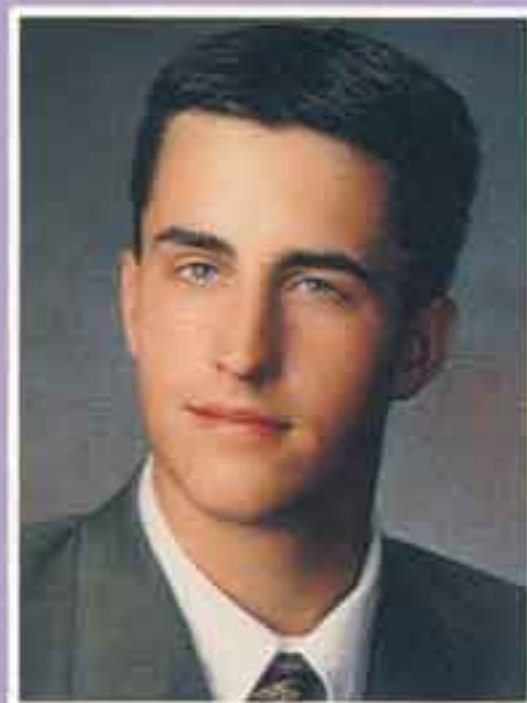

One long chapter is ending, but an even longer one is just beginning.

As seniors, we are able to look back on our high school career and reminisce. We can all remember our first day in a new school feeling scared and excited at the same time. We remember our first week, and the hazing that we went along with it. There were Homecoming events, proms, great basketball seasons, and summer jobs. The time has gone by so fast. The sophomore and junior years passed so quickly. As our senior year approached, the excitement built, and as we started our senior year the fun started. Our senior year is filled with decisions; which college to attend, which profession will we choose? The year ends with graduation. As we are overjoyed, we are able to look back on all the fun we had, and wonder where the last four years went.
