

GEORGE T. LUSK.

"Care, to his coffin adds a nail,
no doubt,
And every grin so merry draws one out."

ROSALIE B. NETZORG.

"Joy rises in me like a summer's morn."

GRACE I. TEMPLE.

"If she were perfect, one would admire her more, but love her less."

MARGARET R. McDOUGALD.

"Commanding, determined, resolute, too,
With a will that is ready to dare
and do."

ALICE HAWKINS.

"Her jolly face is always wreathed in smiles."

EDITH C. BRAINARD.

"What I must do is all that concerns me, and not what people think."

MURIEL E. GARRETT.

"Uncertain—Sad and hard to please."

MABEL E. GARRETT.

"Quiet, studious and determined."
