

TO BE MADE

When the Class of 1967 left school to expand their actions as adult citizens, they may have been tempted to question what one person from one small community of our great nation would be able to do. As one visits the minute-man or visits the spot where the shot was fired "heard 'round the world", may the realization be clear that as one crosses the bridges of life they should be able--regardless of occupation, economic status, etc.--to enjoy the individual life epitomized by Henry David Thoreau.

May each senior have left this high school career with a sense of accomplishment--past, present, and future . . .

With Best Wishes . . .
