

Looking Back On

Marauder Memories

By the time senior year rolls around, there have been many opportunities for students to interact with each other. They've had four years to meet and become friends with people from Elsie and people from Ovid. They aren't people from separate schools anymore. They are Ovid-Elsie Marauders. Many people have shared memories at our high school throughout the years. If it's not at the football game, it's during the required gym class. There will always be times when people can say, "Hey, remember when . . ." Traci Thornburg recalls, "I'll always remember our freshman year when during our basketball game, Heather Mills accidentally shot at the wrong basket and made it!"

"I'll always remember our freshman year when during our basketball game, Heather Mills accidentally shot at the wrong basket and made it!"

Everyone has their own memories, and they are related to many different activities. Sports, classes, and after school events are just a few to start the list. Tricia Bamfili says, "Our junior year at band camp, Kathy Haley fell off her bunk in the middle of the night. I laughed so hard I almost fell off mine." Sometimes the memories people have seem to get better and more exaggerated every time they talk about them. After graduation, seniors will have senior pictures, senior tea, senior interviews, the senior play, and various other events to reminisce about. Open houses will be times for seniors to celebrate graduation with their families and friends and recall memories of being a Marauder.
