"I liked getting them taken, but I looked at the proofs and wished I could do some of them over," said Ty Maneval.

"It was a lot different than standing in line and getting a quick snapshot," said Sean Knight.

"I don't like getting my pictures taken so I thought that it was a hassle," said Brian Weber.

Hassle or not, in later years most will look back and be glad they had them taken. Others didn't get their pictures taken at all. They thought that it was much too expensive or they just decided that the pictures weren't that important to them.

"I think they are something to look back on and have good memories about this time in my life," said Jill Moore.
