

A LEAGUE OF ITS OWN

It hasn't been named a category in the Olympics and it has yet to be considered a sport. Yet it's one of the most popular way students like to spend their weekend, and their money. It's shopping!

"I consider shopping to be a sport because it takes a lot of coordination to be a good shopper," said Senior Melissa Rose.

As in sports, shoppers usually use a schedule to plan their shopping sprees.

"I go shopping as often as possible, at least once a week," said Senior Karen Harden.

In order to go shopping you need money. Some shoppers get money by having jobs or get money from their parents.

"I get money to go shopping with from my job," said Senior Rachel Marsden.

Shoppers also always tend to do their shopping as a group. Just like in most sports, they work as a team.

"It varies each time I go shopping. I usually either go with my mom, my best friend, or my boyfriend," said Senior Lori Higgins.

Just remember though, it's not how little or how much you spend, but whether you hit all the sales.

Keri Litwiller

"As an employee at Fashion Bug, I try to convince people to buy something by helping them to choose flattering styles," Tonya Terpening

Melisa Molyneux

Matthew Moon

Julie Morrison

Jody Motz

Carrie Mullaney

Gina Munger

Tyler Munger

Todd Neller

Rachel Nihart

Robert Nobach

Sean Nobach

Matthew Nobis

