Senior Open Houses are special celebrations because they signify the end of high school. Students have many varieties of open houses including numerous times, dates and food selections.

"I'm having my open house on graduation day so that I'll have time to go to other open houses," said Senior Chrissy Oakwood.

"My open house is the day before graduation so my sister can come home from Florida to attend both the ceremony and the open house," said Senior Brian Schwartz.

Some people are not even having an open house.

"Instead of having an open house

I'm getting money from my parents," said Senior Jeremy Kirkbride.

Some students look forward to having relatives come to their graduation party.

"Many of my family members are coming from out of state to see me graduate," said Senior Allie Sternburgh.

"My parents are making small sandwiches and snack items. Also, there will be beverages," said Senior Jeremy Kigar.

Although some are more elaborate, others are quite modest.

The open house is still a popular graduation tradition.

GOOD FOOD

"My open house is the day before graduation. We will be having Subway subs to eat," said Senior Karie Baker.
