"As a Senior, I worry the most about making the right choice for college. I think it's been a difficult decision for me because I have been accepted to so many good schools and I want to pick the one that is best for me. I think it's okay to be concerned about something of this nature because it will effect my future in so many ways," said Senior Sara Lamers.

Anxiety Attack Seniors Worry About Their Future

Nerves were running rampant in the Senior class. Worries about college life, expenses, and being away from familiar faces plague many.

"My biggest fear is not knowing where I'll be next year. Not knowing who I'll be living with and what I'm going to do with the rest of my life is really scary," said Senior Melissa Simons. While many have similar fears, others worry about finances.

"I'm worried that I won't get enough money for college. I don't think I'll get very many scholarships because I get average grades and have an average family," said Senior Nicole Barrett. Worries other than college are on the minds of others.

"Sometimes I worry that I haven't been involved in enough school activities. After graduation I don't want to regret how I spent my time," said Senior Sarah Myers. For some the pressures of an open house worries them.

"I'm worried about my open house and fear no one will come. I'm not good at talking to people I do not know very well," said Senior Liz Randolph. Some Seniors chose to deal with Senior anxiety early.

"This summer I visit some colleges and by Christmas I knew whe I was going. It was go to deal with it early so now I'm not worrying about it," said Senior Kim Peters.

Though your Senior year may seem stressful and crazy, it's also a fin for fun and letting go. Keeping these words it mind could be helpful. "I don't think it's worth the worrying because everyone goes through and everyone does okay," said Senior Beth Benson.
