

Taking time to exchange gifts among friends is one of the important moments of graduating. Seniors Rhiannona Eyer and

Alison Whitford feel that the farewell gifts are a closure to high school, but signify a new beginning.

Photo by Jim LeMay

Money, cars, or computers?

A brand new car or a trip to Europe would be a great graduation gift, but who expects expensive gifts?

"I will probably get something I will need for college, like a T.V. or a VCR," said Senior Erin Gooder. "My parents are most likely going to get me a computer," said Senior Jeremy Winsor. "I am getting a black bear hunt in Ontario," said Senior Joe Molnar.

Some students have their ideal gifts in mind. "The best gift would have to be money or a vehicle," said Senior Joel Haviland. "I would love to be able to back pack across Europe," said Senior Ben Miller. "A ticket to San Diego, where my angel lives would be great," said Senior Raymond Garcia.

Another aspect of graduation gifts is finding the perfect gifts for your friends. "I plan to give my close friends something that reminds us of a special memory," said Senior Karen McDonald. "I'll give a sentimental card to capture the graduating moment," said Senior Stacey Ritter.

Graduation gifts are a welcome tradition to celebrate this special time.

Sara McLaren

Jennifer Downing
Casey Eiseler
Carolyn Ellis
Rhiannona Eyer

Benjamin Fedewa
Matthew Ferguson
Angela Fillwock
Brian Finos