Ralph Davids Barber

6 Dec 1918 - 31 Jan 1943

The military activity of Corporal Ralph Davids Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Barber, Victor Twp., has been documented by Larry L. Pfieffer. Mr. Pfeiffer's uncle and Barber were in the same tank unit and both were killed in the Tunisian campaign on Jan. 31, 1943. Pfeiffer has done extensive research on all the men in his uncle's company and has recently expanded and updated his detailed account called, Captain Pete,

A Biography of Captain James K. Stepro.

Barber's obituary in the Clinton Co. Republican-News, 4 Mar 1943, says, "He is believed to be the first Clinton County soldier to make the supreme sacrifice for his country." On 24 Jun 1948 the newspaper also described the return to Ovid of Barber's body, his military funeral, and burial in the Greenwood Cemetery at Vernon, Shiawassee Co. Until then, he had been buried in the temporary cemetery near Tebessa, North Africa.

With Mr. Pfeiffer's permission, we have excerpted and edited his narrative as it relates to Barber:

In March 1942, Ralph Barber was at Fort Knox in Co. B, 69th Armored Regiment, 1st Armored Division. The concept of armor was still new and, with war coming, the Army was constantly moving men and units around, forming new outfits. On Mar. 1, 1942, the 69th Armored Regiment was dissolved. Everyone in Co. B, Ralph Barber, included, was moved to Co. H, 1st Armored Regiment, 1st Armored Division. Coming over from Co. D. of the 1 AR to ultimately become the company commander of H, was my great-uncle, James K. "Pete" Stepro, from Corydon, IN, which was only about 25 miles from Fort Knox.

Half of Co. H was support personnel and the fighters were the other half. Ralph Barber was a fighter, serving in Sgt. Andy Stone's 2nd Platoon tank. There were three platoons of five tanks each, plus a command tank and an assistant command tank, making 17. On Apr. 7, 1942, Co. H loaded all their equipment on a train and headed for Ft. Dix, NJ, for staging overseas. They arrived there on Apr. 9 and began to train intensely.

The allies had to do something for morale. They weren't ready to cross into Normandy yet so they decided to go for North Africa, called "Hitler's soft underbelly." The British had the Afrika Korps on the run, chasing them west from Egypt towards Tunisia. It was decided to land

QUERIES

Submitted by Carole Henry, 8711 Meridian Rd., Bannister, MI 48807. Looking for any information on Evert Lacy Holcomb. He was in Clinton Co., MI, in 1930/31; believed to have been born in VA; died in Owosso, MI. troops in Algeria and push east towards Rommel, catching him between the Yanks and the British. It was called "Operation Torch." Part of the 1st Armored sailed on the Queen Mary on May 10.

Co. H was delayed until May 31. They were going in after the initial landings but they were going to be landed closer to the fighting. On Memorial Day, May 31, 1942, Pete Stepro and Ralph Barber and 9 other original members of Co. H left the USA to die for their country. Only Ralph Barber (1948) and Lester Torgerson (1949) were sent back home to be reburied. They set sail on the U.S. Army Transport, Thomas H. Barry, formerly the steamer Oriente. They arrived in Northern Ireland on June 10 and were stationed at Ballywillwill in County Down.

In October, after 4 months of training in Ireland, Co. H moved across the Irish Sea and set up camp at Chester, England. Co. H began loading their tanks on the Duchess of Richmond, a Canadian liner. They sailed a few days later, having to take a circuitous route because neutral Ireland was absolutely filled to the gills with Nazi spies watching the coast. They arrived in Oran and began a slow march towards Tunisia.

On Jan 31, 1943, Co. H was ordered to keep the Germans from coming through Faid Pass. The Germans withdrew into the pass and H was ordered to follow. Ralph Barber was a loader in the turret of Sgt. Andy Stone's M4 Sherman tank. Also in the turret was loader Herbert Baird. Down below, in the hull, were tank driver Bruce McNew and machine gunner Elmer Sutton. Pete Stepro, the company commander, suspected this might be an age-old trick, and it was. As soon as the company got inside the pass they found the Germans waiting. My uncle ordered everyone to withdraw, but Andy Stone's tank was up front and took a shell in the turret. All three men, including Ralph Barber were killed.

The two men down below escaped through a belly hatch. Andy Stone and Herbert Baird are buried in Carthage along with my uncle, James K. Stepro, who was killed in action two weeks later at Sidi bou Zid on the opening day of the Battle of Kasserine.

(We were unable to include in this excerpt the many descriptive battle details and other interesting insights. Larry Pfeiffer says that he is a volunteer at Lincoln Boyhood National Memorial in southern Indiana where Lincoln's mother is buried. He has also written a book about that cemetery. Contact him at 8417 W 400S, Hanover, IN 47243-9111)

Clinton County Historical Paine-Gillam-Scott Museum presents---"Fast Facts"...NAMING OF CLINTON COUNTY

Our County was named Clinton by thirteen members of the Legislative Council of the Michigan Territory, meeting in Detroit on March 2, 1831. The Territorial Governor was Lewis Cass.

In 1835, the First Governor of Michigan, Steven T. Mason, named DeWitt as the County Seat.

Both were named in honor of DeWitt Clinton, a

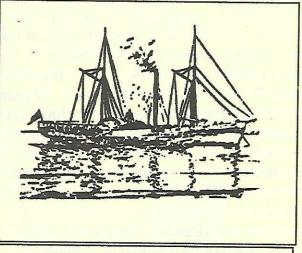

Governor of New York who led the long fight for the Erie Canal and directed its construction.

The thirteen members of the Legislative Council represented settlers and fur traders throughout Michigan and the present state of Wisconsin.

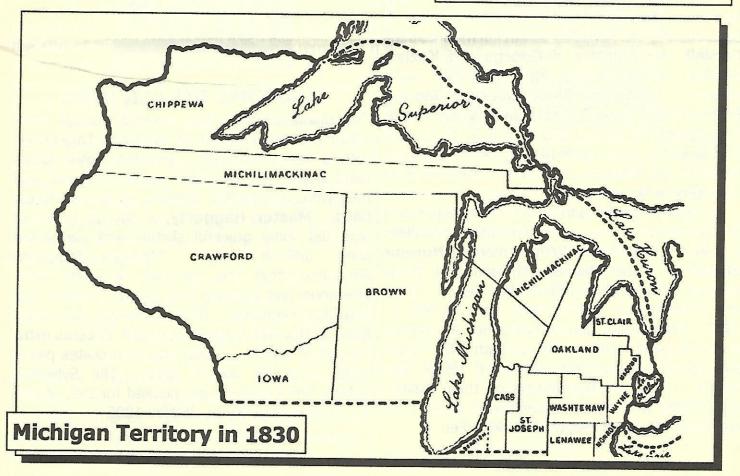

Among those who chose the name Clinton County were Henry Schoolcraft whose recorded Indian legends were immortalized in Longfellow's epic poem, "Hiawatha".

The President of the Legislative Council in 1813 was Abraham Edwards of Lenawee County. He was a passenger on the first voyage from Buffalo to Detroit, on the Great Lakes Steamship, "Walk-in-the-Water".

KNICKERBOCKER GENEALOGY

by R.H. Knickerbocker, July 29, 1999 Gr. Gr. Grandfather Andrew Knickerbocker of PA and Gr. Gr. Grandmother Lavina (Crad) Knickerbocker of NY had one son, Gr. Grandfather James Augustus Knickerbocker. James was born June 9, 1844, in Bradford, Steuben Co., NY. As a small child, James moved with his parents to Chatham Co., PA. At age 17 James enlisted in the 171st Pennsylvania Volunteers to participate in the Civil War. James served 3 months as a corporal. During this period his parents moved to Hubbardston, MI, where he joined them at the end of his enlistment. On Aug. 10, 1864, he reenlisted as a sergeant in Co. D, 3rd Michigan Infantry. He took part in 14 engagements, including the hardest fought battles of the Civil War. James was seriously wounded at Gettysburg. Although the 1st Michigan was the only regiment in direct engagement at Bull Run, the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th covered the retreat. They were among the last of McDowell's forces to reach Arlington.

James became ill in August of 1865 and received a disability discharge on Mar 1, 1866, in San Antonio, TX. In 1868 James married Louisa Coryell, the daughter of George and Keziah Coryell of Carson City, MI. They had eight children: William, Bina, George, James, Libbie, Edith May, Robert, and Jay Ambrose. Gr. Grandfather James died on July 4, 1925. Gr. Grandmother Louisa died Dec. 4, 1933. Both are buried in the Veterans Section of the Mount Rest Cemetery in St. Johns, MI.

The first child born to Gr. Grandfather and Gr. Grandmother was a son, Grandfather William in 1861. Grandfather William married Norena Atwell of Maple Rapids, MI, and had three children: Grandfather William died Feb. 1, 1932, and Grandmother died 32 days later on Mar 4, 1932. Grandfather and Grandmother are buried in the Pleasant Hill Cemetery in Bath, MI. They are buried between the graves of Vergil and Harold. There are no markers on their graves. Grandfather and Grandmother had 3 sons: The first-born, Howard (Sept. 27, 1893 – Feb 3, 1949). Vergil (1895-1916), and Harold (1899-1959). In 1923, Howard married Grace Irene Price. They had one son, Robert Howard Knickerbocker, born Feb. 8, 1925. On June 7, 1947, Robert married Neva Kathryn Adams from Guernsey Co., OH. Kathryn was born on Dec. 29, 1925. Robert and Kathryn have resided in Aiken, SC, since 1981. Robert and Kathryn have two sons; Mark Claude Knickerbocker, born Apr 26, 1848, and Steven Howard Knickerbocker, born June 9, 1952. After graduation Mark secured a teaching position in Australia. Mark resides in Essendon. Victoria, Australia. After graduation, Steven served in the USN and is now involved in computer operations in NC. He married Kathy Anne Babula in 1982 and they reside in Charlotte, NC. They have 1 daughter, Aubrey Anne Knickerbocker, born Aug. 7, 1992.

DIAMOND ROLLER RINK

The Diamond Roller Rink opened Monday night under the management of Henry S. Ingraham with a fine attendance. Horace Kevs' ladies band from Ovid furnished excellent music and they were assisted by the new St. Johns bicycle band. Master Haggerty, a boy 13 years of age, did some graceful skating and performed some difficult feats. Manager Ingraham announces that the rink will be open every afternoon and evening with music Tuesday and Saturday evenings. The admission has been fixed at 10 cents to spectators and 15 cents extra for use of skates. Those who own skates pay 5 cents extra for use of floor. The Sylvester sisters, fancy skaters, are booked for Dec. 7 and 8. Clinton Republican; 26 Nov 1885

Brown School

Dist. #8 Frl., Eagle Twp.

Brown school closed several days ago. June Strong has been the efficient teacher for the past five years, but will teach the North Eagle School the coming year. Mrs. Agnes Lietzke, who has taught the higher grades in Eagle six years, has been secured for the coming vear in the Brown district.

The schoolhouse was prettily trimmed and is a very pleasant place. A bountiful potluck supper was served and nearly the whole district was present to enjoy it.

This schoolhouse is not much like those of years ago. The first schoolhouse in Brown district was made of logs and stood near the residence of Albert Pederson south of the corner. It was only a small building and was destroyed by fire some years afterward.

The next was also a log building and was situated near the house of Mark Brokaw. That also burned.

The next, a good, frame building was erected some time in the late 60's and stood on the site of the present building. This remained in use until about 25 years ago when that also was leveled by fire and the present cement building was erected.

Several beautiful pictures adorn the walls. For several years a picture was presented to the school each year by the teacher. Some of the former teachers were: Miss Nellie Robinson, Miss Lina Boice, Miss Elvira Niles, Miss Aurilia Scaddin, Miss Lizzie Pierce, Austin Bates, A. E. Hart, Mont Kerr, J. C. Morris, and Nate Stevens.

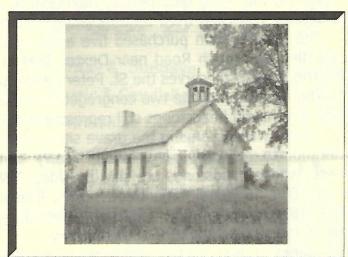

Following is the report of the last school year: The percentage of attendance was 96.7 with 33 pupils enrolled. Eighth grade diplomas were awarded to Rena Selden and Margaret Kerr. Seventh grade certificates were awarded to Betty Whitmore, Rex Davis, Adda Brailey, and Magdalene Pohl. receiving 5 months' certificates: Rena Selden, Rex Davis, Leon Brokaw, Mildred Selden, Barbara Jeffrey, Jean Jeffrey, Louise VanAmburg, Raymond VanAmburg, Gale Selden, and Forest Selden.

The following pupils received certificates for being neither tardy nor absent for the last five months: Cecelia Pohl, Magdalene Pohl, Dorothy Pohl, Charles Jr. Hiar, and Rose Mary Pohl. Penmanship awards were as follows for the last three months: Charles Jr. Hiar, grade 6; Barbara Jeffrey, Betty Jean Stevens, Cecelia Pohl, Dorothy Pohl, grade 4; Louise VanAmburg, grade 2.

Prizes for bon ami silhouettes windows: First place tied by Rena Selden and Charles Jr. Hiar; second place to Magdelene Pohl: honorable mention to Betty Whitmore.

EACH HEADSTONE TELLS A STORY

Wright Road old Lutheran Cemetery

Nuffer, Ernst, Pausch, Luecht, Hacker—there's a story behind each family name etched on headstones at the old Lutheran cemetery on Wright Road.

Many of the surnames are familiar to congregation members of the present-day St. Paul and St. Peter Lutheran churches, whose roots lie in the St. Peter Congregation of Dallas township established in 1861 and later known as St. Peter Evangelical Protestant Church.

Jacob and Anna Nuffer donated the three acres of land on Wright Road between Dexter Trail and Jason Road where the original frame church and parsonage were constructed in 1867. Frederick Luecht was one of the first vestry men serving the congregation, which was incorporated Jan. 7, 1869.

The arrival of new German immigrant families into the area in the late 1870's prompted changes in the structure of the congregation. John N. Fowler and his wife, Elizabeth, donated a site on Sorrell Street in the fledgling village of Fowler in 1878 where the present-day St. Paul Lutheran Church is located. That congregation took the name of Evangelic St. Paul Lutheran Church in February 1888.

During the same time period, members of the original St. Peter congregation who lived on farms in Riley Township were contemplating building a new church closer to their homes.

The congregation purchased five acres in 1886 from Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boughton for that building on Church Road near Dexter Trail in Riley, where the cornerstone was laid July 15, 1888. The church still serves the St. Peter congregation.

The relocation of the two congregations meant the "old cemetery" was used less and less for burials—but the old headstones still represent the foundation of each parish.

Today, walking among the grave sites where the headstones now stand straight and tall, it's difficult not to reflect on the family history of each individual resting there—like the Hacker brothers, whose headstones are side by side: "William A. Hacker, son of Cha. and Mary, died Nov. 30, 1884, 19 years, 4 months, 15 days; Frank Carl Hacker, son of Chas. and Mary, died Dec. 8, 1884, 16 years, 9 months, 17 days." Most likely, the Hacker family lost its sons to the influenza pandemic raging near the turn of the century.

Thanks to the cemetery restoration volunteers, the lives of William and Frank Hacker are able to be remembered. (Reprinted from the Clinton Co. News, 21 Sep 2003; by permission.)

NORTH EAGLE CEMETERY

The Eagle Cemetery, known as the Simon [sic – aka Simmons or North Eagle], was cleared 54 years ago. Levi Wilkinson, who is now 82 years old, cleared the land and was appointed sexton. Mr. Wilkinson has acted in this capacity for 54 years and during that period has dug about 600 graves which includes all the graves in the cemetery.

St. Johns News; 23 Oct 1895

CEMETERY RESTORATION PROJECT

The Lutheran Cemetery owned by St. Paul Lutheran Church in Dallas Twp. and the East Plains Cemetery in Lebanon Twp. were both restored during past summer continuing the Cemetery Restoration Project. Since 1998 volunteers, originally guided by former resident Betty Driscoll, have straightened and repaired gravestones and cleared debris and brush from the county's cemeteries.

Sprague & Ward Elevator

The Sprague & Ward Elevator, recently sold to the Clinton Co. Farm Bureau, is being torn down preparatory to moving to the new location on West Railroad Street at the foot of Brush Street.

This elevator is one of the old landmarks of St. Johns. Mr. Sprague [Charles S.] purchased the building of Ed. Brown some 35 years ago, who was a successor to the firm of Gillett & Anstey who operated it more than 40 years ago. Mr. Sprague started in the business with F. M. Squair as partner. About six years later Mr. Sprague purchased Mr. Squair's interest and continued alone until the entrance of M[yron] E. Ward about eight years ago. In the beginning the elevator was only of 8,000 bu. capacity, but many additions have been added since then, including the flour mill a few years ago. For about 12 years there was a beanery in connection with the elevator, but for the past six years have picked no beans.

The building is expected to be on its new location some time next week. It is stated that work will begin soon thereafter on the new Grand Trunk depot on the ground vacated by the old elevator.
