Hiram Benedict settled in same township about same time Essex Township was approved March 9, 1843.

Geo. Campau first individual land owner in the township and probably in the Co. by purchase of NW_{4}^{1} NW_{5}^{1} Sec 8 Nov. 30, 1832 Did not establish residence there until 1835.

Makitoquet's large band of Indians on Maple River was CHIPPEWAS. Maple Rapids was existing between 1850 & 1860

Trading Post established by Campau in 1835. Not until 1852 were steps taken toward founding a village. In 1852 Wm. Hewitt bought 240 acres of Solomon Moss, built a dam and saw mill, completed in 1853. During that year he plotted a village, established a store and was elected supervisor of Essex. In 1867 it was discovered that the plot had not been placed on record. Was newly surveyed and replotted. Completed on July 22, 1867

Calvin Marvin, more familarly known as "Deacon" Marvin, was undoubtedly the first settler to break ground in Watertown Township. Marvin had three sons, all of whom cleared farms close to the parental home. They constructed a rude camp in which they all lived during the first months while chopping away trees for homes. Many others soon followed them for it did not take long to find that the broad rich acres of this township were among the most fertile in the county.

The "Waterloo Joint Stock Company" was organized in 1837 and land was purchased and platted for the village which is now Wacousta. A saw mill, grist mill and a store were opened by the company who employed Charles R. Spicer as their resident agent. The company proved a financial failure and a lease was granted to Spicer who soon quit and returned to New York. Later the property was acquired by others. N. I. and Nelson Daniells came in 1848, repaired the mill and soon had a thriving business, grinding as high as four hundred bushels of wheat a day.

Grand River City was established by Erastus Ingersoll, one of the forebears of the Ingersoll of "Dollar Watch" fame, in the summer of 1834. It was on the boundary line of Eaton and Clinton on Section 35, but failed to gain any headway as did hundreds of these "paper" villages all over the state.
