Fred Hay, Arsonist

By Wayne Summers

So, who was Fred Hay? A 48 year-old Fred Hay claimed in a court deposition in 1936 he had spent most of his life in the Ovid area. That he had obtained a 4th grade education and had no living relatives. Yet, the name Fred Hay is missing from any available record until 1930 when the census lists him as a farm hand for Orson and Alma Devereaux in Ovid. While there were Hay families in the area, none had a son named Fred. If he lived in Clinton County prior to 1930, it may have been under a different name. While his background is uncertain, his fascination with fire is not. As Fred moved around working various manual labor jobs in the Ovid area, mysterious fires seemed to follow. While some suspected him of setting them, there wasn't enough proof to turn him over to the authorities. Their suspicions, however, proved to be correct, and he later confessed in 1936 to setting Elfrus Dulock's barn on fire a year or so earlier. (Elfrus rebuilt the barn only to have it destroyed by fire once again in 1937. This time, however, the culprit was lightening.)

By April of 1967 Fred Hay had taken a room in the Farmer's Hotel in St. Johns where he had arrived a couple of months earlier to work on a ditch job north of town. Built in 1876, the hotel had originally been called the Hotel American. It had been renamed the Farmer's Hotel when it was purchased by Jacob L. Ring, who ran it as a successful business until selling it in the 1890's. The Farmer's Hotel had then been owned by Charles S. Pate and most recently by James Rule of Lansing. Over the years the place had fallen into disrepair and was mostly unoccupied

On the fateful Holy Saturday of April 11, 1936, Fred Hay began drinking beer and hard cider that morning and continued well into the afternoon. After being filled with the spirits he decided to celebrate the day after Good Friday with a good fire. At about a quarter to six he gathered some papers in a room on the first floor and lit them on fire. Fred then rushed across the street to the Roosevelt Gas Station and reported there was a fire in the hotel. The fire department was notified and Fred along with Ira Harper, a fellow roomer at the hotel, went over and worked to contain the fire until the fire department arrived and quickly extinguished it. Since there was little damage, no one chose to investigate its cause or suspect it may have been deliberately started. After all, they all wanted to get home to prepare for Easter the next morning.

With the fire out, Fred had supper in a nearby restaurant and then returned to the hotel a little after 7 determined to start a new, bigger fire. He gathered some newspapers, soaked them in kerosene, and lit them near the top of the second-floor stairway. He then returned to the restaurant and waited. Hearing the fire alarm, Fred rushed over and attempted to help extinguish the fire. This new second fire, propelled by the kerosene, quickly spread engulfing the building. When the fire department arrived about 7:20 p.m. Fred Hay came out of the hotel and said, "There's an old man in there."

As Elmer Comer stumbled out after trying to save some of his belongings, the firefighters assumed he was the man Fred had been referring to and made no attempt to search for anyone else. But, even if they had known there was another person in the building, they would have had no way to reach him. The stairway was the only way to get to the second floor and it was engulfed in flames.

Upstairs asleep in his room in the stucco wing when the fire started was 65-year-old Charles L. Wilson. Wilson was a traveling craftsman who made his living by sharpening knives and shears. Trapped in the upper hall by smoke and flames, Charles had no means of escape and died of smoke inhalation. His body was later found slumped on a settee at the end of a blind hall still holding his shoes in one hand. Having no family other than three brothers living in Perry, Charles Wilson's funeral took place in St. Johns and he was buried in Mt. Rest Cemetery.

Fred Hay quickly became the prime suspect and he was arrested and questioned shortly thereafter. The following Tuesday he made a full confession of the crime in which he blamed alcohol as the cause of his misdeeds.

Justice moved quickly in the 1930's. On Thursday Fred waived examination and was tried Saturday morning April 18th before Judge Kelly S. Searl where he plead guilty. He was then immediately sentenced to 10-20 years in prison. In less than a week Fred Hay had been arrested, convicted, sentenced, and placed behind bars.

The site of the old hotel was cleared and a bowling alley built on the site.

As for Fred Hay, the 1940 census shows him as an inmate in the Jackson State Prison. After that, well like before 1930, no record for someone with that name has been found.

TEMPORARY CLOSURE NOTICE

The CCHS Archives will be closed starting March 17 until schools are reopened. Our policy has been that we are closed when St. Johns and/or DeWitt schools are closed for bad weather but it is time to change the wording to include all abnormal school closings to eliminate confusion.

We thank you for your support in this decision. If you have questions, you can e-mail me at petersj@msu.edu or ccgensoc@yahoo.com

FABRIC & FLOUR

Shipped direct from the mills in Alabama, South Carolina, Georgia, Massachusetts, and North Carolina, some 7,600 yards of cotton cloth is now enroute to this city as Clinton County's quota of the gingham, percale, shirting, prints, outing flannel, and muslin contributed to the needy of the country at large by the federal government through the Red Cross. Under the direction of Mrs. G.G. Hunter of St. Johns, chairman of the local chapter, an organization has been effected for the manufacture of the cloth into suitable garments and the distribution of these garments to families in distress.

Through the cooperation of the township supervisors, a list of homes has been prepared in which reside more than 1,000 children who will be benefited by the clothing donation. At least two responsible women in each township will aid in the work and a number of organizations over the county have agreed to keep their sewing machines humming until the big consignment of cloth is ready for distribution.

An additional shipment of flour has also been authorized for Clinton Co. During the next three months 807 barrels or 6,456 sacks. weighing 25 pounds each, will find their way to kitchens that might otherwise be bare. (Clinton Co. Republican-News; 13 Oct 1932)

MORE AID

To relieve the suffering coincident with unemployment and hard times, the Clinton County Red Cross chapter has succeeded in securing 2,223 ready-made garments to help clothe the 380 families listed by the 16 township supervisors as in need of such assistance the coming winter. These garments, consisting of stockings., underwear, overalls, play suits, jumpers, knickers, and trousers, will be received from the government via American Red Cross, in addition to the 7,600 yards of cotton cloth already consigned to this county. ...The yard goods includes 1,461 yards of shirting and arrangements have been made by Mrs. Hunter to ship this cloth to Ionia where it will be cut by the prisoners at the Reformatory and then returned to this county to be made up into shirts. ...The supervisors voted an appropriation of $100 to purchase thread, buttons, and elastic and to pay rent on the Red Cross headquarters the next three months. (Clinton Co. Republican-News; 20 Oct 1932)

HUMAN FLY CLIMBS TO COURTHOUSE CLOCK

A large crowd gathered on the courthouse lawn Saturday evening to witness the "Human Fly" climb the outside of the courthouse with his bare hands. The man performing the feat was Harry Casey of Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Casey is one of the best-known steeple jacks in the United States. He began his climb about 8 o'clock and when he reached the top, shook hands with the clock. When the climber reached the projecting ledge near the top he was obliged to catch hold with his hands and sway his body, catching up over the roof with his feet. Mr. Casey said that was the most difficult place he hand encountered in the past two years. (The Clinton Republican; 3 July 1919)

APPEAL AGAIN FOR SHELLS AND PITS

Howard W. Fenton, manager central division of the chemical warfare service, has asked Gov. Sleeper to appeal again to the people of Michigan for fruit pits and nut shells to be used in producing carbon of superior quality for use in gas masks. One million pounds of carbon a day are needed and the people are urged to collect pits from peaches, plums, apricots, prunes, and dates, and to gather hickory nuts, walnuts, and butter nuts from the woods. Deliver to W. R. Osgood, St. Johns, who will see that they are forwarded to headquarter. (The Clinton Republican; 7 Nov 1918)

SOMETHING NEW UNDER THE SUN

Alien Women Residents of Clinton Co. take out Naturalization Papers

County Clerk, John Walker, says it never happened to him before. Three women appeared before him the other day to take out their first naturalization papers, due, no doubt, to the new law giving the right to vote to women. The three women who made their declaration of intention are sisters, the Misses Anna Katherine Thelen, Katherine Thelen, and Anna Mary Thelen. It will be noticed that there is somewhat of a similarity in the given names. Now that women have the right to vote, it will doubtless not be in bad form to refer to ages, so it can be stated that the sisters range from 29 to 33 years, all three were born in Dress [sic], Germany, and came to this country in 1894. They own and work their own farm in Dallas Twp. The Republican joins in welcoming them to citizenship and the right to vote. (The Clinton Republican; 13 Feb 1919)

Note: An internet search reveals that the three Thelen girls (ages 15, 9, and 7) sailed to Philadelphia from Antwerp with their father, Anton (widower), grandmother, Anna Katharina (widow), and brother, Johann. The ship's manifest states that the group is headed for Pewamo where they have relatives.

GOVERNOR CLOSED THEATERS, CHURCHES

After a conference with Michigan mayors and health officers last Friday night, Governor Sleeper issued the following proclamation:

"Whereas it is a matter of common knowledge that the state of Michigan, in common with other states of the Union, is facing the serious and imminent danger from the disease commonly known as Spanish Influenza, which is prevalent in practically all communities throughout the state; and

"Whereas said disease is highly contagious and is spread. by personal contact with the persons infected therewith, thus creating the necessity of avoiding, insofar as is possible, all gatherings and meetings whatsoever

"Now, therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me as governor of the state, I hereby direct that all churches, theaters, moving picture shows, pool rooms, billiard rooms, lodge rooms, and dance halls shall be and remain closed until further proclamation and that all unnecessary public meetings or gatherings shall be avoided. All health officers and health boards in the various cities, villages, and townships of the state shall take action as is required by law to carry out and insure the careful performance of the terms and conditions hereof.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the state to be affixed at Lansing, Mich., this 19th day of October 1918." (The Clinton Republican; 24 Oct 1918)

"The first meeting of the Clinton Co. Historical Society was held at 8 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 28, 1974, in the auditorium of the Municipal Building in St. Johns. Hila Bross, from Bement Public Library, located in the same building, welcomed the 33 persons assembled and announced that Feb. is both American History Month and American Music Month. She introduced the choral ensemble of the St. Johns Morning Musical who sang three American songs, Down in the Valley; Nelly Bly by Stephen Foster, and The Arkansas Traveler. Harlow School

By Wayne Summers

As I was writing the book Clinton County Schools: A brief history of the schools of Clinton County, Michigan, information on some of the over 100 schools that once operated in the county remained elusive. One of those was the Harlow School.

I was recently contacted by a person looking for more information on this school. That encouraged me to dig a bit deeper into the history of this school and turn up a few interesting tidbits.

The Harlow School (Watertown District 4 and 4f) was located on the northeast corner of Grove and Herbison Roads just west of DeWitt. By 1957 it had closed and merged with the DeWitt School District, and in July of 1957 DeWitt voters approved the sale of the old Harlow School property. Today the location is covered with trees and brush with no sign of its earlier history.

The Harlow District was closely aligned with the Allen and Hurd schools in the early 1900's. The three districts held combined reunion picnics at various locations in the Lansing area including Moores and Potter parks for several years.

A partial list of teachers at the school were: Mary Bedane, Kate L. Pierce. F. B. Jarvis, Mrs. Patterson, Treva Chant, Deone Jones, and Irene Volz.

An interested incident occurred at the Harlow School in February of 1924. Myrtle Biedersteadt, daughter and only living child of Henry and Martha Biedersteadt, was 11 at the time with long braided hair which she had been unsuccessfully trying to convince her parents to cut.

On the morning of Wednesday, February 27th, when she arrived at school her braids were gone having been crudely cut off. She reported to her teacher that on her walk to school she had been attacked by a man who cut off her braids with a knife, stuffed them in her pocket, and then pulled a gun and told her to go to school.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Wilcox was contacted. He quickly arrived and questioned Myrtle who described her attacker as about 30, with a blue suit, brown scarf, and tan hat. Deputy Wilcox gathered a posse of about 50 men and boys who set out to search for the assailant. When the posse arrived at the location where Myrtle said the attack had occurred, mysteriously, the only footprints found in the snow were hers. By noon the search was abandoned.

Deputy Wilcox said he didn't want to make fun of Myrtle, but felt they had been following the wrong clues that morning.

PAGE SCHOOL

Dist. #3 Frl., Clinton & Gratiot Counties

Jackson Page donated the land and gave his name to the Page School in section 6 of Duplain Twp. He was born and educated in Delaware Co., Ohio. At an early age he came to Michigan and bought acreage in Gratiot Co. where he cleared land and built a cabin. He enlisted in the 32nd Michigan Cavalry in 1861 at Eureka and fought in many battles, being wounded once. He was discharged in 1866. When his brother, George Page, died in the Civil War, Jackson acquired his property in Duplain Twp.

Jackson returned to his Duplain property after his discharge and married Mary (Kean) Dague on Sept. 23, 1866. He proceeded to clear this land, plant an orchard, and build a house and barn. He farmed there the rest of his life. Jackson (1832-1916) and Mary Page (1838-1909) are buried in the Eureka Cemetery.

The school building was located on the southeast corner of Willowbrook and Chandler Roads. After the district was annexed by the St. Johns School District ca 1961, the building and ½ acre of land was sold in 1966 for $1,100 and the building was demolished.

In 1961 about 400 former students and teachers gathered to celebrate the centennial of the district. During the ceremonies, fourth and fifth generation families who attended Page were honored. They were: Roy and Leon Halteman, Allan Oberlin, Orpha Landis, Howard and Marion (Landis) Aldrich.
